HOME OF THE FREE?.....

In 1972 a wonderful little book was published. It arrived with little fanfare yet somehow it has managed to survive for 23 years. Most people have never read it. These are the same people who today are asking questions about what went wrong with America. These are the same people who today find that their plans for the future, no matter how hard they have worked to make those plans a reality, have vanished into thin air. These are the same people who are working 3 jobs to keep what one job secured for them 20 years ago.....These people are you and me, the working middle class, the "We the People."

The book is titled "None Dare Call It Conspiracy," and was authored by Gary Allen with Larry Abraham. It was considered very controversial 23 years ago. In retrospect it appears to have been a blueprint for the future of America. That America is perhaps where we are all living today.

If you doubt the possibility of a conspiracy to bring America to it's knees and perhaps install a totalitarian dictatorship through the conversion of our republic into a democracy you need only look to the changes in our laws. Gary Allen provided his readers with fourteen signposts on the road to totalitarianism. They were compiled by Dr. Warren Carroll, a refugee from Yugoslavian communism. The list is in no particular order. However, nothing on the list existed in American law at the time the list was compiled. Read it now, experience it for yourself. Any one of the listed items would be a clear warning that the totalitarian state is very near, and a significant number of perhaps five or more could possibly suggest that the freedom we have once enjoyed and the preservation of our Great Republic has been lost.

FOURTEEN SIGNPOSTS TO SLAVERY

- 1 Restrictions on taking money out of the country and on the establishment or retention of a foreign bank account by an American citizen.
- 2 Abolition of private ownership of hand guns.
- 3 Detention of individuals without judicial process.
- 4 Requirements that private financial transactions be keyed to social security numbers or other government identification so that government records of these transactions can be fed into a computer.
- 5 Use of compulsory education laws to forbid attendance at presently existing private schools.
- 6 Compulsory non-military service.
- 7 Compulsory psychological treatment for non-government workers or public school children.
- 8 An official declaration that anti-Communist organizations are subversive and subsequent legal action taken to suppress them.
- 9 Laws limiting the number of people allowed to meet in a private home.
- 10 Any significant change in passport regulations to make passports more difficult to obtain.
- 11 Wage and price controls, especially in a non-wartime situation.

12 Any kind of compulsory registration with the government of where individuals work.

13 Any attempt to restrict freedom of movement within the United States.

14 Any attempt to make a new major law by executive decree (that is, actually put into effect, not merely authorized as by existing executive orders).

President Nixon invoked executive order numbers 1, 11, and 14. As of January 1, 1972, banks must report to the government any deposit or withdrawal over $5,000. That number has since been reduced to $3,000. Any purchase of $10,000 made in cash must also be reported to the federal government. Courts have in some instances ordered individuals without bank accounts to open one under threat of incarceration through charges of Civil contempt.

This government is presently attempting to end private handgun ownership (#2) in America through federal legislation. Recent destruction of Habeas Corpus has made signpost #3 a reality. Federal banking laws have made signpost #4 the law of the land.

President Clinton's "American in Service" legislation has made signpost #6 an expected part of American behavior. Federal civil rights legislation in regard to helping young children deal with alternative live styles of adults (Suzie's two mommies/daddies) has made signpost #7 a part of the new American landscape. The EPA's trip reduction legislation, which limits an individuals rights to travel freely on the highway is a perfect example of signpost #13. Road blocks or check points set up by either local or state police under the guise of searching for drugs or drunk drivers, while appearing to be in the service of society are in truth an invasion of our freedom to travel.

The truth speaks for itself.....America may be lost.....We may now be living under totalitarian rule. Some of us will recognize the truth. Some of us will continue in denial of the truth. Too few of us will fight back to regain the freedoms we have lost. The only thing we can be sure of is that this government will continue in its relentless march over whatever may be left of this once great Republic until we are all slaves on the land our fathers fought to make free.

Winston Churchill, speaking to the English people as they were about to become involved in World War II proclaimed:

"If you will not fight for right when you can easily win without bloodshed; if you will not fight when your victory will be sure and no to costly, you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival."

Because the American people have ignored warning after warning, we have finally come to that place in time where we are beginning to ask where are freedoms have gone. Unless we begin to take action now against unconstitutional acts on the part of our elected public servants, we will face a future choice, also described by Mr. Churchill. He said:

"There may be even a worse fate. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish then to live as slaves."

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Article I Declaration of Rights.

All people are by nature free and independent and have inalienable rights. Among these are enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining safety, happiness and privacy.

Eminent Domain

Section 19. Private property may be taken or damaged for public use only when just compensation, ascertained by a jury unless waived, has first been paid to, or into court for, the owner. The Legislator may provide for possession by the condemnor following commencement of eminent domain proceedings upon deposit in court and prompt release to the owner of money determined by the court to be the probable amount of just compensation.

The first principle of the social compact between the inhabitants of California, 'the masters,' and those elected to serve them, 'the servants,' is that no one of its members shall do himself justice, but seek it through the public authority with which its dispensation is deposited: hence the maxim, that every citizen is under the safeguard of the law; Toullier vol. 1 p. 168~ therefore is it not the worst conceivable violation for those who have sworn to serve to instead become the greatest offenders, by attempting to destroy that which they have sworn to preserve. This corporate state, is in fact, not acting in its sovereign capacity, but as a common creditor under the contrived bankruptcy of 1933, and has usurped and combined all the powers, legislative, judiciary, and executive, which in every well regulated government are always kept distinct. It is high time to restore the true sense of government according to the plain language of the Constitution, rather than having the continuance of loss of property rights under the total misapprehension and de facto authority of administrative law.

In the Constitution of California there is stated a restriction on the legislative body under Article II Sec. I Purpose of Government "All power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their protection, security, and benefit, and they have the right to alter or reform it when the public good may require."

The Constitution establishes the general principle of the inviolability of contracts. Ogden v. Saunders 12 Wheat. 312 The universal law was so before the constitution, which is but declaratory of it. 12 Wheat 303,304, Federalist, No. 44 What right then has any elected or appointed public servant or judicial magistrate to put upon these provisions of the constitution a limitation not to be found in either the letter or the spirit? It is a first principle of the jurisprudence of all free people, having written constitutions, that legislation must be prospective and general, not retrospective or individuated 1 Toullier 96: Montesq. Esq. de Loix, liv. 11 ch. 6 liv. 6 ch. 5.

The instances of laws which are void, as against common right, mentioned in the case of Calder v. Bull, 3 Dall 388 are laws punishing innocent actions, violating existing laws, impairing private contracts, making a person judge in his own cause, taking property from one and giving it to another. The authority to make such laws is not among the powers intrusted to legislatures. They cannot revoke their own grants. Terret v. Taylor, 9 Cra. 45: United States v Arredondo 6 Peters 728 Every constitutional power unreasonably exercised, this court has declared would be void. Jackson v. Lamphire, 3 peters, 280

Therefore, we, the people, the Masters, make it now known to you, the servants, that we refuse to accept or obey any legislation that would deprive us of our private property without benefit of due process as de jure law in California as it is in held in violation of the Declaration of Rights of this Republic, which we, the people, hold in parity, and furthermore, that this legislation is null and void under the doctrine of Res Judicata. To wit:

"Personal liberty, or the Right to enjoyment of life and liberty, is one of the fundamental or natural Rights, which has been protected by its inclusion as a guarantee in the various constitutions, which is not derived from, or dependent on, the U.S. Constitution, which may not be submitted to a vote and may not depend on the outcome of an election. It is one of the most sacred and valuable Rights, as sacred as the Right to private property...and is regarded as inalienable." 16 C. 3.5., Constitutional Law, Sect. 202, p.987.

'Where rights secured by the Constitution are involved, there can be no rule-making or legislation which would abrogate them.' Miranda vs. Arizona, 384 US 436, 491.

"The claim and exercise of a constitutional Right cannot be converted into a crime." Miller vs. U.S., 230 F. 486, 489.

"There can be no sanction or penalty imposed upon one because of this exercise of constitutional Rights." Snerer vs. Cullen, 481 F. 946,

The Anonymous Government

The Anonymous Government

Have you ever gone into an IRS office and asked for the name of the clerk who is "helping" you? Generally, you will receive a first name only. You will be told that is all they have to tell you about themselves. Or how about the endless stream of unsigned letters from the IRS, Social Security Administration, Dept. of Transportation or Motor Vehicle Bureau? If you are given incorrect or untrue information by one of these government employees, you have no recourse, since you don't know the identity of the person who gave you the information in the first place.

The growing trend toward anonymous government poses a serious problem facing the American people today. When public servants are permitted to disseminate information without first identifying themselves, then you have no guarantee of the accuracy of the information you receive. Most government agencies and instrumentality's, such as the Internal Revenue Service, Social Security Administration, Department of Motor Vehicles or Transportation, Tax Assessor, County Recorder, Dept. of Social Services, Environmental Protection Agency, Drug Enforcement Agency, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Central Intelligence Agency.....well, you get the message. Government employees have decided to become invisible. After all, if your rights are violated by a non-existent government employee, then there is nothing you can do to fight back.

Anyone who has ever canceled his or her drivers license or motor vehicle registration with the State of California, has subsequently received a letter from B.B. Jones, implying that one cannot travel in California without a drivers license-a statement which the courts have affirmed to be untrue. Upon investigating the matter, we found that nobody by the name of B.B. Jones exists at the California Dept. of Motor Vehicles; this is a fictional person.

If you have properly rescinded your signature from your original social security application, you probably received a letter from the Social Security Administration, signed by a Vincent J. Sanudo. This moronic letter tells you that while collecting social security benefits is optional, having a number is mandatory-- a blatant lie by a government employee- or is it? We have reason to believe that Vincent J. Sanudo is also a non-existent person, a name which attaches no real person in the government.

How many other faceless names in government do not, in reality, even exist?

I have asked Congressman Wes Cooley to consider, a proposal that he introduce legislation into the U.S. House to require all employees of government agencies and instrumentality's to identify themselves upon request, by giving their full names and social security or other employee identification number. If government officials know that you know who they are and how to take action against them, then they will be much less likely to use their position to misrepresent and otherwise trick you into voluntarily complying with their regulations which do not apply to you.

Letter to the Editor

( Publisher's Note. The following letter to the editor is only an example of many such stories being reported to common sense and other news organizations. the question to ask your self and congress is. what is going on? )

August 31, 1996

Dear Editor,

I witnessed the crash of TWA flight 800.

I work in a county office in California. My wife and I were on vacation in New York. We were on the beach when it happened. We talked to many other witnesses who saw the same thing that we did. A very bright fiery light heading upward toward the jet- Then an explosion.

We told what we had seen to some investigators. We told them that we were on our vacation and about to continue on to Florida. They asked us to stay a while longer and said that they would pay our hotel bill until our statements as to what we saw could be taken by other investigators. We agreed.

It turned out however to be more than just our statements taken. They took our social security numbers, drivers license and license plate numbers. They wanted to know my place of employment and the names and addresses of our children and relatives. They questioned us in separate rooms and made us feel like criminals. They said that what we must have seen was a shooting star or some fireworks being shot from a boat. I told them that it was not anything like that at all. I said that it was definitely a flare type rocket heading toward the aircraft, then it exploded.

It was then suggested that we did not see anything at all and that we were going along with what other people said they saw, just for the excitement of it. I told them "no way, I know what I saw."

After the questioning we were asked to go back to the hotel and stay there until we were cleared to leave. About three hours later two other men we had not seen before came to the hotel. They gave us some money and told us "never to mention anything to anyone about being witnesses to the crash again."

They scared the hell out of us. It was a lot of money and we accepted it out of fear.

If it was a missile that brought down the jet then I could understand that they would not want people to panic. But the way they are handling it is shocking and inexcusable.

My wife and I are outraged and we want people to know how we were treated...

This letter is not signed out of concern for ourselves and our family.

Mind Wars! Part II: Money Control In America

The problems in America are the result of people being led to believe things that are not true. America has been lulled into a deeeeeeeeeep sleeeeeeeeeeep and it is now time to wake-up!

Psychological warfare is being waged against an unsuspecting public. As in any war, the most powerful weapon of all and the least understood by those who need to know is money.

In a letter to Thomas Jefferson in 1787, John Adams wrote: "All the perplexities, confusion, and distress in America arise, not from defects of the Constitution, not from want of honor or virtue, so much as from downright ignorance of the nature of coin, credit and circulation."

What was true then is even more true today.

Confusion surrounds the very meaning of the words money, dollar, wealth, inflation, and credit. Add to this, widespread public ignorance and confusion concerning tax laws, and you have a system designed to control and enslave the population.

The money system operates in a way that would astound most Americans if they only knew how it worked. A dishonest money system is at the very heart of America's economic and social problems. The degree to which the money system is corrupt is the degree to which all other areas of society are corrupted.

Money is the builder or destroyer of society. An honest money system brings prosperity to all citizens. A dishonest one enriches a few at the expense of everyone else.

If a group of men were able to gain control over the money system of a nation, would they not be masters of that nation? If they had unlimited power to create unlimited amounts of money, could they not direct the course of society and all of its institutions? If their alliance encompassed the length and breadth of the globe, would they not be masters of the world?

On November 22, 1910, the nation's leading bankers left by train at night from Hoboken, New Jersey on a secret mission to Jekyll Island, Georgia. Their mission - to create what was to become the Federal Reserve System. The essence of psychological warfare is to confuse the meaning of words, and infiltrate the mind with conflicting concepts.

Use of the word "Federal" in the name of "Federal Reserve" leads the public to believe that the Federal Reserve is a government institution. Contrary to this misleading use of language, the FED (as it is commonly called) is a private corporation owned by foreign and domestic banks and operated for profit. The FED controls the nation's money supply and interest rates, and thereby manipulates the entire economy, in violation of Article 1, Section 8 of the United States Constitution that expressly charges Congress with "Power to coin money and regulate the value thereof." Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution says: "No State shall make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts." Gold and silver coin were taken out of circulation, removed as backing for our currency, and replacted with monetized debt - in other words, credit.

Credit exists only in the mind. It is not a substance, but an idea represented by bookkeeping entries and computer symbols.

In the book, "1984" George Orwell warned that people were in danger of losing their freedom without being aware of it while it was happening because of psychological emotional and intellectual manipulation: mind control. The manipulation of words and their meaning is the key to controlling what people think. Orwell called the redefining of words "Newspeak," where traditional definitions are eliminated while new meanings are repeated over and over again until accepted.

The definition of the word "dollar" has undergone such a transformation to hide the fact that it is not money, but a unit of measurement for gold and silver coin. Title 12, United States Code, Section 152 states: "The terms 'lawful money of the United States' shall be construed to mean gold or silver coin of the United States." Title 31, United States Code, Section 371 says: "The money of account of the United States shall be expressed in dollars."

A dollar is not money. It is the expression of money. The money of account of the United States is gold and silver coin. A dollar is a unit of measurement like an inch or a quart or a mile. Congress, in the Coinage Act of 1792, fixed the dollar as a specific weight of silver in the form of a coin and fixed the value of gold coin in relation to the dollar unit of silver. If there are no gold and silver coins, there are no dollars of anything.

Dollars cannot be money any more than quarts can be milk. A unit of measurement cannot replact or become the "thing" for which it is the measure. However, in the mind of the public, this is exactly what has happened. People have been led to believe that a dollar is both money and a measure of it. This is what George Orwell called "double-think," where the mind is infiltrated with conflicting concepts...unawares, unawares, unawares.

Centuries ago, it became common practice for people to store their gold in the vault of the local goldsmith for a fee.

Special Issue

"Mind Wars!" by Steven Jacobson

Continued.....

The goldsmith would give the depositor a receipt for the amount of gold stored for safekeeping. The receipt was not money, but a money substitute. It also became common practice for people to exchange these "warehouse receipts" with one another for goods and services as if they were money since the receipts could be redeemed for the gold held in storage.

The goldsmith soon discovered that only a small percentage of the gold stored in his vault was ever reclaimed. He began issuing receipts for more gold than he had, using some of them himself to buy things and loaning the rest at interest, while taking title to real property as collateral. In either case, there was no gold in the vault for these extra receipts. By increasing the quantity of the money substitute, the goldsmith had stolen from the holders of legitimate receipts, the value of which was reduced by the number of fraudulent receipts issued.

Paper currency, a money substitute, is honest only when the real money for which it is a substitute equals the number of receipts in circulation. By manipulating the number of receipts in circulation, the goldsmith quietly confiscated the wealth of the community without anyone being aware of what was happening. By reducing the number of receipts, he could make money scarce, causing a depression where he could foreclose on property and increase his wealth. He could then stimulate economic activity and bring prosperity by increasing the number of receipts until the next cycle of plunder.

All of America's economic problems originate with the practice of issuing fraudulent receipts for gold that does not exist. This practice became standard operating procedure for the banking establishment.

The modern-day counterpart to the warehouse receipt for gold is the Federal Reserve Note. Remember: the essence of psychological warfare is to confuse the meaning of words. The word "Federal" implies Federal government, but the Federal Reserve is a privately-owned corporation. The word "Reserve" implies there is something to give the paper receipt value, but no gold or silver backs this paper. The word "Note" implies a contract, because a note by law must identify who is paying, what is being paid, to whom and when.

Between 1914 and 1963, Federal Reserve Notes never claimed to be money, nor did they claim to be dollars. A note for five dollars read as follows: "The United States of America will pay to the bearer on demand five dollars." Can a promise to pay five dollars be five dollars? To the left of the President's picture and above the bank seal, it said: "This note is legal tender for all debts public and private, and is redeemable in lawful money at the United States Treasury or at any Federal Reserve Bank." In 1963, soon after the assassination of President Kennedy, the FED began its first series of notes without the promise, while taking notes with the promise out of circulation.

Can paper become what it promises by removing the promise?

To the left of the President's picture and above the bank seal, it now read: "This note is legal tender for all debts public and private." A note is and IOU. It is evidence of debt. It is not possible to pay off a debt with a debt. No debt can be paid in full unless paid in gold or silver, coined and regulated by Congress. The name "Federal Reserve Note" is a fraudulent label since each word claims to be something that in reality it is not.

By removing the promise to redeem the note in lawful money, the Federal Government in cooperation with the Federal Reserve eliminated the monetary system of the United States as established by the Constitution and replacd it with something totally different.

On page 12 of "Keeping Our Money Healthy" published by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, it states: "the Federal Reserve System works only with credit." Credit is not a tangible substance like gold or silver coin. Credit exists only in the mind, and it is necessary to control minds to induce the public to accept pieces of paper with numbers on them in plact of lawful money.

If you are holding a five dollar Federal Reserve Note, the question you need to ask yourself is what is it five dollars of? The answer is absolutely nothing. The number five measures no substance. The only thing that gives paper money value is the confidence people have in it. It is entirely psychological.

There are only two economic systems. One is barter. The other is credit. Barter is simply the exchange of one thing of value for something else of value. A monetary system using gold and silver coin is a barter system.

Special Issue "Mind Wars!" by Steven Jacobson

Continued.....

Throughout history, many different things have served as a medium of exchange because money, in and of itself, does not exist. Something must be used as money. People have traded for goods and services using cows, salt, tea, opium, and tobacco.

Gold and silver have been accepted as money worldwide since ancient times. All things used as money have had a common characteristic: they were all tangible wealth. They were all things you could weigh and measure. Credit, on the other hand, is intangible. You cannot touch it. You cannot weigh and measure it because there is no substance to weigh and measure. It is all imagination.

An honest money system uses wealth as a medium of exchange. Wealth is physical, not psychological. People produce wealth through their labor transforming natural resources into usable products that have exchange value in the marketplace. Gold and silver converted to coin by human labor is wealth. Credit is not wealth. No labor is expended in the creation of credit other than a magician's sleight of hand. Centuries ago, when the goldsmith issued his first receipt for gold that did not exist, he created credit. He also created inflation because credit and inflation are the same thing. They are both receipts for wealth that does not exist. They are both an imaginary medium of exchange.

Remember: paper currency, a money substitute, is honest only when the real money for which it is a substitute equals the number of receipts in circulation. When half of the receipts circulating as a money substitute are redeemable in gold, the other half is both credit and inflation. When none of the receipts are redeemable, all of it is credit and inflation. Credit is inflation. Anything used as a medium of exchange in place of wealth is inflation. When using gold and silver coin as money, there can be no inflation. Therefore, the only cure for inflation is honest money.

An honest and sound money system employs just weights and measures. A ten dollar coin is twice as large, and twice as heavy as a five dollar gold coin. Remember a dollar is a unit of measurement for gold and silver coin to insure uniformity of weight, purity, and value. A dollar unit of paper money that is not one hundred percent redeemable in gold or silver coin is a dollar unit of inflation, which is a dollar unit of credit, which is a dollar unit of NOTHING.

The sole function of paper money that is not one hundred percent redeemable in gold or silver coin is to get things without paying for them. Those who issue and control paper money as credit get everything for nothing. Paper money as credit is a device to confiscate wealth using magic with numbers where numbers of NOTHING are exchanged for things of substance and value.

It was Daniel Webster who said; "Of all the contrivances devised for cheating the laboring classes of mankind, none has been more effective than that which deludes him with paper money." (Song cut: "Paper money. Bogus money. It's been proven throughout history. It deceives you while it bleeds you as it leads you down to tyranny.")

The American Revolution was fought over the issue of money. The colonies created their own paper money, and put it into circulation on public projects until enough taxes could be collected in gold and silver coin to buy back the paper. Colonial Scrip as it was called was used as a temporary, emergency measure to meet the demands of commerce. The rapid growth and prosperity of the colonies attracted the attention of the Bank of England, a private corporation chartered by the British Crown of 1694 and granted an exclusive monopoly to create money out of nothing, and loan it into circulation at interest. Having gained control over British industry through frequent depressions caused by manipulating the quantity of paper money, the Bank of England sought to exploit the colonies by seizing control over their money.

The British Parliament had no power over the colonies until the campaign by the Bank of England to nullify laws granting the colonies the right to create their own money, making it compulsory that the colonies borrow their money at interest from the Bank of England. This was the true cause of the War for Independence. Benjamin Franklin put it this way: "The colonies would have gladly born the little tax on tea, and other matters, had it not been that England took away from the colonies their money".

When the monetary provisions of the Constitution were being drafted, there were heated debates over whether or not to grant Congress power to emit bills of credit - in other words, print paper money. The colonies knew the agonies of inflation (paper money that does not maintain its value when it is not an honest claim for wealth such as gold and silver coin). Oliver Ellsworth, a delegate from Connecticut, who later became this nation's third Chief Justice of the Supreme Court said: "This is a favorable moment to shut and bar the door against paper money. The mischief of the various experiments which have been made are now fresh in the public mind and have excited the disgust of all the respectable parts of America."

Roger Sherman, also a delegate from Connecticut and author of the gold and silver coin provision of the Constitution, wrote a scathing condemnation of paper money entitled "A Caveat (caveat means warning) Against Injustice" in which he said: "If what is used as a Medium of Exchange is fluctuating in its Value it is no better than unjust Weights and Measures, both which are condemned by the laws of GOD and Man, and therefore the longest and most universal Custom could never make the Use of such a Medium either lawful or reasonable."

And so the Framers of the Constitution stipulated a monetary system of gold and silver, to be coined and regulated in value by Congress and prohibited the government from issuing paper money as stated in Article 1, Sections 8 and 10 of the Constitution: "Congress shall have Power to coin money and regulate the value thereof ... No State shall make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts."

With an honest money system established in the United States, no nation would be able to maintain a dishonest money system for long, and this posed a serious threat to the money power centered in London. The Revolutionary War did not end the battle over who would control the money system of America. The battle continued until the money power of England and Europe, and their associates in America achieved victory when Congress, anxious to go home for Christmas holiday, passed the Federal Reserve Act on December 23, 1913. Congressman Charles A Lindbergh, Sr., father of the famed aviator, told Congress after the vote..."When the President signs this act, the invisible government by the money power will be legalized." And so it was. President Woodrow Wilson signed the act into law, turning over the money system of this nation to a group of private bankers and allowing them to create money simply by making bookkeeping entries, loan it at interest, and take title to real property as collateral. As a result, the citizens of the United States lost control over their money system and their government.

The Federal Reserve System is modeled after the Bank of England. Though it consists of twelve regional banks, it functions as the nation's central bank. It is where banks go to borrow money and is appropriately called the "Banker's Bank." The Federal Reserve System is a private corporation owned by foreign and domestic banks and operated for profit. The Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of Italy, and the Reichsbank of Germany were all founded as privately owned banks and not government institutions as their names imply.

Remember: The essence of psychological warfare is to confuse the meaning of words and infiltrate the mind with conflicting concepts. The international banking establishment operates on the principles of fractional reserve banking that originated with the goldsmith long ago. It is based on the dishonest practice of issuing receipts for more gold than is held on deposit.

On page 4 of "Modern Money Mechanics" published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, it says the following: "At one time bankers were merely middle men. They made a profit by accepting gold and coins brought to them for safekeeping and lending them to borrowers. But they soon found that the receipts they issued to depositors were being used as a means of payment. These receipts were acceptable as money since whoever held them could go to the banker and exchange them for metallic money."

Then bankers discovered that they could make loans merely by giving borrowers their promises to pay (bank notes). In this way, banks began to create money. More notes could be issued than the gold and coin on hand because only a portion of the notes outstanding would be presented for payment at any one time. Enough metallic money had to be kept on hand, of course, to redeem whatever volume of notes was presented for payment." And when they did not keep enough gold and silver coin on hand to redeem all notes presented for payment, their fraud was exposed and short bankers were hung from tall trees.

Under fractional reserve banking, banks create money whenever they grant a loan. It is the act of borrowing that causes it to come into existence. Banks lend money that did not exist until they loaned it. It is a true feat of magic. Banks create money by monetizing debt - the debts of government, business, and the public. Banks literally create money out of less than nothing because a debt is a sum of money due. It is not possible to pay a debt with a debt, and yet this is what America and the world is using as money.

Federal Reserve Notes are evidence of debt the U.S. Government owes to the owners of the Federal Reserve the payment of which is guaranteed by the collateral of all property and income of all U.S. citizens.

How the U.S. Government borrows money from the Federal Reserve is not much different from the Abbott and Costello comedy sketch in their movie "Buck Pirates" where Bud Abbott wants to borrow fifty dollars from Lou Costello. Listen to their routine and compare it with the explanation of how the Federal Reserve works its magic that follows:

Bud: Do me a favor. Loan me fifty dollars.

Lou: I can't lend you fifty dollars.

Bud: Yes, you can.

Lou: No, I can't. All I got is forty dollars. That's all.

Bud: All right. Give me the forty dollars and you owe me ten.

Lou: O.K. I owe you ten.

Bud: That's right.

Lou: How come I owe you ten?

Bud: What did I ask you for?

Lou: Fifty

Bud: And how much did you give me?

Lou: Forty.

Bud: So you owe me ten dollars.

Lou: That's right. Well, you owe me forty.

Bud: Now, don't change the subject.

Lou: I'm not changing the subject. You're trying to change my finances. Come on now. Give me my forty dollars.

Bud: All right. There's your forty dollars. Give me the ten dollars you owe me.

Lou: I'm paying you on account.

Bud: On account?

Lou: On account I don't know how I owe it to you.

Bud: That's the way you feel about it. It's the last time I'll ever ask you for the loan of fifty dollars.

Lou: Wait a minute, Smitty. How can I loan you fifty dollars now? All I have is thirty.

Bud: Well, give me the thirty, and you owe me twenty.

Lou: O.K., this is getting worse all the time. First, I owe him ten; now I owe him twenty.

Bud: Well, why do you run yourself into debt?

Lou: I'm not running in. You're pushing me.

Bud: I can't help it if you can't handle your finances. I do all right with my money.

Lou: And you're doing all right with mine too.

Bud: Now, wait a minute. I ask you for the loan of fifty dollars and you gave me thirty. So you owe me twenty dollars. Twenty and thirty is fifty.

Lou: No, no, no...

The U.S. Government borrows money from the Federal Reserve using the same kind of logic and manipulation of words and numbers as the Abbott and Costello comedy routine. When the U.S. Government needs to borrow money, the Treasury creates a bond, which is a fancy word for an I.O.U., and promises to pay a specified amount of money at a specified interest on a specified date. This bond is evidence of debt just as an I.O.U. is evidence of debt.

This interest-bearing debt is the foundation for this nation's money supply and its payment is guaranteed by the collateral of all property and income of all U.S.

citizens. The Federal Reserve "buys" this debt simply by making a bookkeeping entry for the amount and writing a check against no funds, and then converts it into paper currency and checkbook money.

The U.S. Bureau of Engraving prints the paper currency in whatever denominations ordered by the Federal Reserve and charges about two cents for each note, regardless of the denomination, which the Federal Reserve "pays for" by making another bookkeeping entry and writing another bad check. In effect, the Federal Reserve lends the U.S. Government its own credit, our credit, and then charges interest on it.

Every dollar created by the Federal Reserve System is debt for the citizens of the United States, which the central bank collects interest on, in addition to the interest from the bond created by the Treasury that put this magic money-making machine in motion. And it gets worse. The Federal Reserve inflates the amount of the bond in order to make even more loans of imaginary dollars and collect more interest on an investment that cost NOTHING. Under fractional reserve banking, the amount of money a bank can create is limited by the reserve ratio or fraction it is required to maintain. For example, when the reserve ratio is ten to one, a bank can create and loan ten dollars for each dollar held in reserve and charge interest on it. While the reserves of the goldsmith were gold, the reserves of the Federal Reserve is paper--nothing more than bookkeeping entries that are a record of debt.

The absurdity of the situation is that if there were no debts, there would be no money, since every dollar of paper currency and checkbook money is loaned into circulation. And, in order to pay the interest, there has to be another loan because the banking system only creates the principal and not the interest. In fact, the interest can never be paid because it is not possible to return to the bank more dollars than were created--making it inevitable that the Federal Reserve Banking System acquire title to all the wealth in the union.

This is exactly what the Framers of the Constitution intended to prevent when they stipulated a monetary system of gold and silver coin and prohibited the government from issuing paper money, because a nation that uses money based on debt can never be free of debt.

[Song cut: "Paper money. Paper money. It's a Federal trick without a treat. It's the source of all inflation, and the reason why your ends don't meet."]

The only source of inflation is the Federal Reserve Banking System, consisting of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks dominated by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the nation's commercial banks. Increasing the amount of currency and checkbook money increases inflation. Creating new dollars reduces the value of all dollars, resulting in higher prices.

By manipulating the quantity of created dollars, the purchasing power of every dollar is altered. The expansion and contraction of an artificial money supply produces the cycles of prosperity and depression that have long plagued society. Depressions are the result of private bankers reducing the money supply by tightening credit and withdrawing currency, causing a drop in prices, unemployment and foreclosure of property. This mechanism is premeditated theft.

The purpose of the Federal Reserve Act that was given to the public at the time was that it would prevent panics, crashes, and depressions. What the public was not told was that the nation's leading bankers engineered those very events to encourage the public to demand what the bankers wanted.

The strategy used is a classic example of Hegelian Dialectics--a method to bring about change in a three step process. The first step is to create a problem. What caused the panics, crashes, and depressions that led to the Federal Reserve Act was the same thing that later caused the Crash of 1929, and the Great Depression: manipulating the amount of credit and paper money just like the goldsmith of old had done.

The second step to what amounts to crisis management is to create opposition to the problem--an opposing force that will lead to a predetermined goal, thus bringing about change that would have been impossible to impose on people without proper psychological conditioning. By causing emotional stress and mental confusion, judgment is impaired and suggestibility increased.

Under these conditions, people can be manipulated into accepting something that is not in their best interests. This was the case with events that led to the Federal Reserve Act, which placed control of America's money system in the hands of private bankers. Thomas Jefferson warned against doing this when he said: "If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation and then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property until their children wake up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered."

When people conducted all business with gold and silver coin, it was a final transaction where payment was made on the spot, settling debts without delay. All paper currency was redeemable in gold or silver coin, thus conditioning the public to believe that the bank's promise to pay in wealth was as "good as gold."

By calling gold and silver "money," and then calling bank notes "money," the two blended together in peoples minds so that gradually over a period of time the difference between them was erased from public memory. A promise to pay money substituted for lawful money until the promise was removed. Exchanging paper currency is an incomplete transaction until payment is made in gold or silver coin. Until then, it is both credit and debt: a record of a specified amount of money to be paid or received.

Credit--which is deferred payment, and debt--which is a sum of money due, are the same thing, which is hidden by deceptive double-entry bookkeeping where a debt becomes an asset by calling it a credit. Paper money that redeems nothing only appears to have value because it can be exchanged for things of value. When a piece of paper representing debt is exchanged for wealth, someone has been robbed. Paper money expropriates wealth from one person, then from another, then from another, and on and on until the last person to get it will be stuck with it. What the first user (the bank) gets for NOTHING, the last user will get NOTHING for.

The sole function of paper money that is not one hundred percent redeemable in gold or silver coin is to get things without paying for them. Those who issue and control bank credit as money get everything for nothing. Bank credit is a device for confiscating wealth using magic with numbers where numbers of nothing are exchanged for things of substance and value. This grand theft occurs in full view unnoticed because the public has been made an accessory to the crime by accepting pieces of paper with numbers on them in place of lawful money, not knowing the difference between the two. [Song cut: "Paper money. Worthless money. It's a nation's curse since times of old. Things won't ever get no better till we make the FED give back our gold."]

Under fractional reserve banking, the amount of credit a bank can create is tied to the wealth on deposit for which the currency can be redeemed. This limitation was removed when gold was confiscated from the public to protect the currency system based on that gold.

During the Great Depression of the 1930's, people who had gold on deposit in banks wanted the banks to honor their contract to redeem the paper currency for gold. The fraudulent nature of fractional reserve banking was at risk of being exposed because there was not enough gold on deposit in the banks to redeem all Federal Reserve Notes promising payment in gold. On March 6th, 1933 President Franklin Delano Roosevelt by Executive Proclamation declared a national emergency and closed down the banking system for two days on the recommendation of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

On March 9th, Congress passed the Emergency Banking Act declaring a national emergency and conferring the President the extraordinary authority of the War Powers Act and the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6th, 1917 amended to place all money matters of American citizens under its jurisdiction. It became illegal for U.S. citizens to own gold under penalty of up to a $10,000 fine and/or up to 10 years imprisonment. People turned in their gold and gold certificates in exchange for Federal Reserve Notes of created dollars based on debt which bore a promise of redemption in lawful money.

The circulation of gold coins, and redemption of paper currency for gold ended, leaving silver dollars as the only lawful money available. Silver was eventually eliminated from the money system, leaving the American people with a totally debauched money system of irredeemable paper currency and copper-nickel clad tokens that represent a debt owed to the owners of the Federal Reserve Banking System the payment of which is guaranteed by the collateral of all property and income of all U.S. citizens

When banks cannot honor their contract to redeem their notes for gold or silver coins, they are, in fact, bankrupt. The contract between the people and the Federal Reserve printed on each bank note promising to pay in lawful money was invalidated because the system went bankrupt and because the amended version of the Trading with the Enemy Act of 1917 placed all U.S. citizens in the category of "enemy," and no contract is considered valid between enemies. American citizens were declared to be the enemy by their own government for indeed they would be if the people ever discovered what had happened to their money.

It is the responsibility of honest government to insure that the money system serve the nation, and not enslave the nation. We can be self governing only when public servants are dependent on something citizens provide. When gold and silver coin were used as money, the people had control over their government. The golden rule of finance is that he who has the gold makes the rules. If the public has the gold, the public makes the rules. If the central government and central bank have the gold, they make the rules.

The loss of the right to trade in wealth such as gold and silver coin enslaves the people to those who create and control what is being used as money. All it took to enslave America and the world was to convince people that paper and credit are money. The Federal Government and the Federal Reserve have the power to create unlimited amounts of credit because credit does not exist. It is not a tangible substance, but an idea represented by bookkeeping entries and computer symbols.

The distinction between free men and slaves is whether or not they are paid for their labor. He who labors for money that the first user got for nothing is a slave to the first user--the banks.

The Constitution established the use of both gold and silver coin as standard money to insure the equal buying power of every dollar at all times. Honest money is nothing more than a transportation system to move goods and provide services. A credit system is nothing more than a slave system designed to control the population and all economic activity. Deficit spending is a phony as our money, and illogical. How does one spend a debt?

To pay means to deliver a tangible substance as money like gold and silver coin. Where there is no substance, there is no payment, only pretended payment. Banks do not really lend, they only pretend to lend. They put no money in a borrower's account. They only make bookkeeping entries that are reduced as the borrower writes checks against imagined deposits.

By charging interest on a loan they do not make, banks impart psychological value to numbers of absolutely NOTHING. Charging interest sustains the illusion that banks loan something of value--when all they do is rent illusions. "Usury" used to be defined as any interest charged for a loan. The modern definition redefines it as excessive interest. Any amount of interest charged for a pretended loan is excessive. Interest, then, should be recognized for what it really is--tribute: a sum of money paid as acknowledgment of submission or as the price for protection. Tribute is extortion by a conqueror over the conquered..

The so-called deficit is not really a deficit at all, but an asset the government gets in exchange for its role in the credit creating scheme of the banking system. As the deficit grows, both government and bank assets grow because the government and the banks acquire things of value with the credit they create out of debt. Banks should not be allowed to lend what they do not have, which is exactly what banks do. Banks enter credits and debits of nothing. They do not transfer honest dollars of gold and silver coin. What makes a check bad is the same thin that make fractional reserve banking bad--insufficient funds, or rather, no funds as is the case.

The words pay, borrow, and loan are meaningless without the means of payment. No one is paying for anything. Debts are being discharged with debt instruments, but no debts are being settled by payment in honest money, lawful money, Constitutional money.

There can be no liberty, no justice, no economic freedom without an honest money system.

Three years after signing the Federal Reserve Act into law, President Woodrow Wilson made the following statement: "Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men. We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated governments in the civilized world--no longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of small groups of dominant men."

When using wealth as a medium of exchange, government must receive wealth from its citizens to pay for goods and services. When using credit, government is totally independent of taxes and does not have to pay for anything, which the illusion of taxes conceals from public view.

When the only thing on deposit in banks are bookkeeping entries, the honest payment of taxes is no longer possible because there is no honest money with which to pay. The notion of deficit spending leads the public to believe that the government spends more than it collects in taxes when, in fact, Congress spends nothing and wastes nothing because no money goes to Washington as taxes. Taxes sustain the illusion that the numbers people call "dollars" have value, when gold and silver coin are the only honest money measured in dollars.

Though nothing is financed by taxes, consumption, the public's capacity to use up goods and services, is reduced. Subtracting credits from bank accounts reduces consumption and eliminates previously created inflation. Consumption is regulated by taxing money (credit) away from people so they cannot spend it. Phony taxes regulate inflation. It is a safety valve to keep us from being drowned in paper, and to keep prices from exploding to phenomenal numbers.

A check to the Internal Revenue Service authorizes the transfer of numbers from one bank account to another. When bank deposits are only bookkeeping entries, taxes are an illusion that seem real when banks subtract numbers because there is less to spend.

The tax system reduces public allotment of credit in order to destroy some of the bank created credit so that the bankers, and their government, can continue to create more credit, and with this credit get unlimited goods and services for nothing. This is the great secret and deception of modern money and taxes: The Greatest Magic Show On Earth.

The Federal Reserve pumps money (credit) into the economy and the I.R.S. sucks it out of the economy, thus manipulating the purchasing power of the artificial money supply. The I.R.S. is really the collection agency for the Federal Reserve. All so-called dollars collected by the I.R.S. are transferred to the Federal Reserve as payment on the interest of the imaginary national debt. The Secretary of the Treasury is not the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury because the U.S. Treasury was bankrupted in 1933.

The Secretary of the Treasury is not paid by the United States Government. The Secretary serves as U.S. Governor of the International Monetary Fund as receiver of the bankrupt United States, collecting the debt from U.S. citizens.

America is owned by its creditors. The bankers own everything. The elaborate Internal Revenue Code with its convoluted language, special definitions, and references to different chapters, sub-chapters, sections and subsections is nothing but a deep cover for the dishonest, irredeemable paper money credit swindle.

[Song cut: "Paper money. Funny money. It's a ticket stub to tyranny. Gold and silver is the answer. It will reinstate our liberty. We the People have the power. We can reinstate our liberty."

"Star Spangled Banner" (the following sound bytes are interspersed throughout the song:

* "All the perplexities, confusion and distress in America arise, not from defects in the Constitution, not from want of honor or virtue, so much as from the downright ignorance of the nature of coin, credit and circulation."

* A nation that uses money based on debt can never be free of debt.

* The Federal Reserve System works only with credit.

* "Congress shall have Power to coin money and regulate the value thereof...No State shall make an Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts."

"Now that you have been made aware of the truth of what actually happened in Waco, Attorney General Reno, and the enormous, far-reaching ramification of that truth, doing "the right thing" cannot possibly mean that you, and the Department, can continue down the same path you have been pursuing all this time-- i.e., continue to tell the Congress, the Courts, and The America people that Waco was "just another mass suicide-- like Jonestown," or that it was simply "a tragic accident," and that the blame for what happened should continue to be dumped onto the heads of the victims--

When the truth is that David Koresh and the other 85 men, women and children in his compound were murdered by one of this country's best professional CIA "wet" teams in order to bury the truth concerning an illegal CIA mind control operation which produces "Manchurian Candidate type" programmed robot assassins.

You may also, unwittingly be contributing to the inevitable assassinations of President Clinton and Vice President Gore in the not too distant future.

October Surprise Investigator Found Dead

The badly decomposed body of Paul David Wilcher, age 46, was found today at his Washington D.C. apartment. Mr. Wilcher was an attorney and an investigative researcher who had been working with Gunther Russbacher, the deep cover CIA operative who claims to be the October Surprise pilot. Mr. Wilcher and Navy Captain Russbacher have been trying to expose the 1980 Reagan campaign deal to delay the release of the 52 American Embassy hostages. Such a delay meant certain victory for Reagan.

Wilcher recently had told friends and colleagues in Washington that he knew far more about October Surprise and all the related scandals, such as the Inslaw scandal, the BOCI scandal and other government scandals and cover-ups, than did Danny Casolaro. Mr. Casolaro was a reporter and writer who was "suicided" in Martinsburg, West Virginia in 1990.

"Suicided" is a term applied to assassinations which are made to appear as a suicide. Many people believe Casolaro was murdered to keep him from revealing the pattern of related government scandals that Casolaro dubbed "The Octopus."

Wilcher's friend and colleague, Marion Kindig, told this reporter that recently Wilcher had expressed fear that he might be killed for "what he had in his head." The last time Wilcher was seen by friends in the D.C. area was June 11. Because Wilcher was a regular guest of senior White House correspondent, Sara McClendon, she and Ms. Kindig became suspicious when he did not answer his phone or door. Ms. McClendon tried without success to get the D.C. police to open the door to his apartment. They appeared reluctant to get involved.

After numerous calls and pressure from Ms McClendon, the police finally opened the door. Mr. Wilcher was found in his bathroom, sitting on the toilet. Cause of death has not been determined.

Ms McClendon and Ms Kindig viewed the body to make an identification. They were shown only the face, which was badly decomposed, swollen and purple. Both women said that the face looked as if it had been badly beaten. Neither woman, even though they knew Mr. Wilcher well, could make a positive identification.

Mr. Wilcher had been working on many different pieces of "The Octopus" at the time he was murdered. He had asked for a copy of the cockpit video of George Bush being flown home from the treasonous Paris meeting in an SR71 - Since Bush had been defeated and no one felt that it would be dangerous for Wilcher to have a copy. According to the operatives who arranged for its delivery to Wilcher, the drop was to have occurred between June 10th and 19th. Verification of its delivery has not been made.

Mr. Wilcher was also in possession of documents showing the link between George Bush, Saddle Hussies and Bill Clinton in the BOCCI-Brent scandal.

However, it is my opinion that Paul was murdered because he knew the truth behind the attack on

Mt. Carmel in Waco.

On May 21st, Paul Wilcher hand carried the following 100 page document to Janet Reno. Even though he had an appointment, he told me he was strong armed in the hall, thrown up against a wall, and threatened. His 100 page document was taken, and he was thrown out of the Department of Justice.

At the time his body was discovered, his apartment was sealed and searched by the FBI. All documents disappeared. Gunther Russbacher knew that Wilcher had been working on the Waco document, because Russbacher and his contacts within the Intelligence Community had provided Wilcher with the information contained in the 100 page report.

The information had been given to Wilcher over the telephone from the Missouri prison where Russbacher was incarcerated. When Wilcher disappeared, we were sure all the documentation that had been given to him was lost. About a month later, Sara McClendon surfaced the copy of the 100 page report. Wilcher had given it to her to read shortly before his death.

On May 21st Wilcher gave the 100 page document to the Department of Justice. On or about June 11, Paul Wilcher disappeared. On June 23 Paul Wilcher's body was found.

On July 1, 1993, Gunther Russbacher smuggled the following information out of the prison where he was being held. According to Russbacher, this is the story of the last day of Wilcher's life. The following is a word for word rendition of a hand written note:

questioned as to the Bush, Webster and Carter accounts with London S.W. BCCI

3. At point of death he was beaten to the face to make it look like a mugging. ## Sheriff Richard Mack

Letter to the Editor

On Tuesday, September 10, in Arizona, the State and local primaries were held. Sheriff Richard Mack lost his bid for re-election as Sheriff of Graham County. He is nationally known for getting part of the Brady law declared unconstitutional. I had met and talked with Sheriff Mack on a number of occasions. He is a rare person. He believes in strict interpretation of the constitution. He believes that government, including law enforcement, is continually usurping power and are continually violating the constitution. If you read his book, From My Cold Dead Fingers (or something like that), you would think it had been written by the Founding Fathers of our Country. It is truly a time for mourning.

Thomas Paine Order of Conspicuous Patriotism

The editors and publisher of Common Sense are proud to award to

Sheriff Richard Mack

The Thomas Paine Order Of Conspicuous Patriotism with all the rights, privileges and responsibilities that accompany the order. The Patriotism displayed by this sovereign citizen in defense of the Constitution for the United States of America has set an example that each of us should take to heart. The self sacrifice, devotion to freedom and disregard for their personal standing in life is the mark of a true American Patriot. It is these same qualities that has always clearly defined true American Patriots. It is these qualities that requires the true Patriot to stand alone, if necessary, in the face of whatever threat may come against the Constitution. This Patriot has those qualities and has displayed them in the face of the many and verified forces ranged against there efforts made in defense of liberty. While it is true, that the forces intent on the destruction of the Constitution may present a seemingly unstoppable juggernaut, it is Patriots like this that form freedoms impenetrable defense. A defense that has never failed us in time of need. It is the unwavering final thin line that stretches from Lexington Green to the present and stands between personal freedom and ultimate slavery. This American Patriot deserves the respect of each American and is hereby confirmed as a member of the Order Of Conspicuous Patriotism. This order seeks to identify leadership qualities in those few that are willing to stand for right in the face of wrong, Republic instead of tyranny and personnel liberty no matter what the cost.

Multi-Culturalism

We have all heard

America referred to as a "melting pot." From its inception, our great country has been a haven for people of all religious persuasions, cultural backgrounds, belief systems, races; a place where liberty minded people from all over the globe could come to live the kind of life only dreamed of in their respective homelands. America was the Great Experiment, a land of the free, where a Citizen could own his own land rather than engage in a feudal relationship of servant to the Lord of the manor, who owned all titles and property.

But in today's America a menace has reared its ugly head, threatening to undermine everything which America stands for. That menace is embodied in multi-culturalism.

Today's public schools are teaching students to identify with the culture from which they originally came, rather than the culture in which they live. Our children are being taught to think of themselves as Irish-American, Italian-American, Afro-American, Asian-American, and so forth. We are told to recognize ourselves as unique; then we are told not to associate with anyone who is not exactly like us. I know that nobody can ever be exactly like me. In addition to the differences espoused through multi-culturalism, people are qualified as Jewish, Catholic, Protestant, Buddhist, Muslim, gay or straight, male or female, rich or poor, upper, middle or lower class, ad infinitum. Then we are told not to associate with anyone different from ourselves (that stranger sitting next to you may be a mass murderer/serial killer). This is no way to live.

In the current climate of government regulation and mass media mis-representation of facts, it is often difficult to get to the truth of any issue. However, it is becoming ever so crystal clear that multi-culturalism has served to distract freedom loving Citizens from the real reasons for living in the U.S.A.; to live as an American, to live as a free being, with full liberty and all of the God-given Rights as written into the Declaration of Independence. You see, the thing that we all have in common - Irish-Americans, Italian-Americans, Afro-Americans, Asian-Americans - is that we are all Americans!

What would our country be like if we all banded together as free Americans in the common cause of liberty and justice for all! What would life be like if, instead of fighting the battles which the government and media have provided for us - battles which cause division among the American people rather than unifying us all - we joined together to reclaim America as the true Land of the Free? If enough true Americans put aside the difference created by those who wish to keep us separate, and unite in the common cause of liberty and personal freedom, which brought our Founding Fathers together and won for us a free Constitutional Republic, we can and will succeed in restoring constitutional rule to our Land in our lifetime.

We must remember the messages left for us by the Founding Fathers. We must remember the warnings they gave us about guarding our liberties with jealousy and diligence, or waking up one day to find them gone. We must remember the truth of the old adage, "united we stand, divided we fall". We must remember the value of the principles of personal freedom and liberty which the Founding Fathers pledged their lives to protect and defend.

The next time you hear someone identified as and "Afro-American" or "Italian-American", walk up and remind him that he (or she) is an American first, foremost and always; that being an American is very special; that those few who love liberty above all else are the same people who, throughout history, have always changed the world. You may be surprised at the effect your words will have.

If you are interested in asserting your God given Rights and reclaiming your rightful place as Master to the government servants, contact Freedom Bound International at 541-893-6870. The wrongs which have been perpetrated on the American People will only be righted by the involvement of patriotic Citizens such as yourself.

A Simple Thank You

A Simple Response, by George Douglas

A SIMPLE "THANK-YOU FAX TO ALL RIGHT-WING RADIO TALK-SHOW HOSTS (and their extremely cooperative whacked-out jealous-wreck callers). As a life-long LIBERAL... first a Republican Liberal, now, a Democratic Liberal... I wish to express sincere gratitude for your solid help during his first term...and ensuring the second term...of President William Jefferson Clinton. Each time you showed your barnyard disrespect for the President, the First Lady, Chelsea...even Socks...you pushed an American button the one that despises bullies. With all their perceived weaknesses, political naiveté, apathy, general ignorance, vis-à-vis things civic... the electorate of this wonderful, free land is compassionate; loathe to forgive wanton, gratuitous cheap shots. You latched onto every sickening and ludicrous (to a surreal excess) rumor...knowing, KNOWING, the untruth of it all. You labeled the President of your own country a LIAR, A THIEF, A MURDERER, for gods sake. You did this without a thought to what it was costing the United States of America. Your very own United States of America. You did this sleazy bashing with an over-abundance of malice aforethought. You lusted to destroy the First Family. As we, the citizens who still believe In America, tuned-in. FOR FOUR YEARS...our initial nausea metamorphosed into a solid belief in, not only the President, but in our fellow citizens. Gradually, but surely, we melded into the giant majority you see in today's tracking polls. A giant majority solidly in President Clinton's corner. Thanks, guys, see you November fifth.

The above was received by fax at the Common Sense News Office. Since I am the only talk show host who works there it falls to me to respond. I shall try to fashion my response, in such a way, that the truth won't hurt too much. I say that because the above unnamed, self-proclaimed liberal is already bleeding for everyone.

First, it is obvious that this life-long liberal is a coward because the fax, which was sent directly to our office was unsigned. This person is also quite used to breaking the laws that their big government brethren are forcing on us, because the fax sending station and fax number was not identified on the head or foot of the page as the federal law requires.

The insulting tones of this letter also indicate that this person is one of those who thinks everyone has a right to their own opinion as long as it is in lock step with the liberal line of thinking. Individualism is all right, as long as we are all doing the same thing individually.

Interesting isn't it that when their own liberal bent was not able to fit the conservative lean of the Republican Party, this person jumped ship to the Democratic Party instead of staying with the G.O.P. and fighting for some kind of balance.

I can hear the liberals warming up on this one already, so I'm going to say it first. Yes, President Reagan did leave the Democrats to move to the Republicans. His reasons were clear and totally different then our distinguished mystery author. President Reagan could hardly be expected to stay in a party that was collecting every left-wing faction available to keep itself viable. He also recognized that the nation itself wanted and needed the reins of conservative politics to bring government under control. Ronald Reagan is a man with great political savvy. He knew that his chances of getting the job done were better with the G.O.P., he was right and it made him President.

The above letter accuses us of bullying President Clinton and his wife. Is it bullying to ask that he come clean about his past? Is it bullying to ask Mrs. Clinton to provide answers to questions concerning her part in a savings and loan scandal? Even if it were a minor part as she has claimed. Is it bullying to ask both of them to explain their answers when they don't fit the facts? Must I go on?

About Chelsea. I personally have never mentioned her on the air or otherwise to the best of my recollection. I have not because she is an innocent and did not ask to be the President's daughter. I respect her right to grow up unabused by the press and to those who may have, I say shame on you. What passes between the President and his family as a part of their family life is none of anyone's business and if that privacy has been violated by a talk show host then I apologize for any such infraction since I am responding to these charges.

The author has accused us of latching onto every sickening and ludicrous excess. I suppose that this is in reference to the Dick Morris story, Jennifer Flowers, Paula Jones or might it be the disappearing and appearing billing records. It could also be the growing list of members of the Presidents official family or the administration that have committed official suicide. Vince Foster and

A Simple Thank You

Admiral Borda are the two most well known, but there are others.

When it comes to things being ludicrous, is the author referring to the President's claim that he doesn't have to face Paula Jones now because he is on active duty and protected by the Soilders and Sailors Act. Perhaps ludicrous is, under God, being left out of the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag at the democratic convention and then defending it by saying that is the new politically correct way now. This came directly from a Clinton-Gore '96 staff member. Maybe ludicrous is President Clinton giving control of half of Utah over to the United Nations without consulting anyone. Not the State's Governor, it's Senators or any of it's Representatives in the House. Perhaps what is sick and ludicrous is the above author's unwillingness to accept facts and reality.

We have been accused of giving our opinion of the President and Mrs. Clinton without regard for what our exorcise of free speech was doing to the nation. This indicates that our liberal guest author thinks that free speech is OK as long as we aren't speaking out and giving our opinion on subjects that should matter to all Americans. Subjects like the integrity, honesty and behavior of our President. This liberal is correct about one thing, this is our country and like it or not we will never stop speaking out any more then our liberal friend will stop bleeding leftist big government into our schools, work places and family homes. We both have that right, unless it has been taken away in a resent executive order that I'm not aware of yet.

We have been accused of having malice aforethought in our free speech. We have also been accused of lusting to destroy the first family. We are not interested in the first family. Just in preventing the President's liberal ideals or lack of ideals from doing any further harm. You would blame us for presenting the colorful pieces of this administration when it is the President and his whole staff that keep turning out the puzzle on a regular basis. The pieces were starting to fit together in 1994 and the people took the President's majority away from him. The polls were wrong then, so I wouldn't place too much hope in the ones being used to tell us our vote really won't count this time because the President has already got the election in the bag. We are a funny lot, us American voters. We get offended by any politician that gets too sure of our vote just before an election. This liberal propensity toward taking the people for granted might just put some people in their place. The same can also be said for both of the major parties as well. Perhaps it is time for both liberals and conservatives to be replaced by the people in the Nation's decision- making process. After all most Americans probably consider themselves centrists even though they may not explain it that way. There aren't many people left that are Democrats or Republican for clear reasons outside the beltway. Except those few that have escaped to run again for office. Many people listen to and like lots of the ideas and proposals from all sides of the political debate. Based on their own lifestyle they are likely to hold a mixture of liberal and conservative views. This is what has given rise to the third party challenge along with the two parties failure to keep the people's house in order.

In closing, let me say thank you to our guest liberal author. You have confirmed a suspicion that I have had for some time. My suspicion is that there are a few of you left out there that still believe the pablum that you are fed by the corporate media, the government spin doctors and slanted political trail bosses and will never open your eyes to the truth because you would have to take responsibility and actually do something besides let someone else do your thinking for you. That's OK, it's your right. The rest of us will look after the country, but don't complain if this nation founders on the rocks of apathy while your in la-la land not getting involved except to launch meaningless complaints about what those of us that are involved did to you without you knowing it.

So here's to you, my liberal friend, keep swinging and so will we. Isn't the freedom of speech great. Remember your country needs you, now more then ever.

Special Issue The Strategy of Influence

Now that we have a news organization, what do we do with it? How do we get people to read it, and what can each of you do to help? These are good questions, so let's take a look.

To get people to read Common Sense we have adopted a short form news brief format. This 4 page text presentation is meant to be read in less than 20 minutes. It is meant to provide the straight facts and where more details can be found on the subject. The reader will be directed to the source of the information, a fax on demand document in the Common Sense fax library, or an official source for answers and more information. The writing is meant to inform in a level, factual, and verifiable way that does not sensationalize or turn the reader off by sounding too incredible. Many of the articles will ask questions of the reader that they will want answered.

The market for Common Sense is mainstream America. To reach the mainstream, we must approach them at the local level. Likewise, affecting the direction of the Republic must be done from the county level, through the state level, to the national level. The best way to accomplish this is also the chief way that the Common Sense subscribers can help.

Every one of you knows someone that should know the contents of a Common Sense issue. For example, some of you know people in the real estate profession, mortgage banking business, or is a investor in mortgages, or real estate. Plus, all of you know property owners. If everyone takes this issue's first article about asset forfeiture to the people you know you will help move the conversation into new circles of influence. Some of you know local, state, and national political insiders. They should have access to the second article that points out that there are some states that are beginning to express their displeasure with the federal government through their legislatures. You all know people that can't identify with any political party but might be interested in the third article which outlines America I.

Give all of the above a full copy of the issue and try to get a fax number, or e mail address from them so they can receive a free trial subscription. Give me a call with that information, unless you intend to see each issue is delivered to them through your own system or by hand. Don't let a possible reader go without offering them the opportunity to have the advantage of receiving Common Sense news. That seems to be a self-serving statement until you consider the consequences of them not receiving the kind of information Common Sense is publishing.

In it's short form, Common Sense makes a great handout at meetings, and is easy to copy, or fax. You must look for opportunities to get the information in front of people. As you meet people and get to know them, get them to except a copy or perhaps a subscription to Common Sense. Use whatever excuse you can. Some will agree just to get access to our low long-distance rates. We have rates as low as 6 cents a minute, depending on customer volume. If you are interested in moving subscriptions to Common Sense by selling long-distance, we have a commission sales program to encourage you to do that. Give me a call, toll free, at 888-472-1776.

Helping move each issue into the hands of the mainstream is only one way you can help. If you have a broadcast fax system, and you have lists of people that accept faxes from you routinely, then you can get Common Sense into many peoples hands in your local area, which is a great help. The same is possible if you have an e mail list you broadcast to. If you are in business send a copy to your clientele with your most recent flyer. Treat Common Sense as a premium that you are giving them just for being your customer. Retail store owners can make a few copies of each issue, and have them as pick-up items at their cash registers. All you need to do is think about how you can move copies into the hands of the mainstream. Read the articles and think about who you know that should know that information.

Doug
Another important way Towne that many of you can help is by becoming a correspondent for Common Sense. If you qualify, you will receive press credentials, and be able to assist in the gathering of the bits and pieces that make up the truth. When I say qualify, I am talking about demonstrating that you are a person of good character. This is done by furnishing me with references. I know that some will not be comfortable with that and I respect your privacy. But you must understand, if Common Sense is going to say a story is credible then it must be able to show that it believes the person reporting the story is credible. As far as the expense of communications, we will shoulder as much of the burden as possible, but, of course, hope that some of you will take some part of it on yourselves. That is the reason we ask each correspondent to be a paying subscriber, also, Will we accept a correspondent that can't afford a subscription? On a case by case basis, the answer is yes.

Finally, if you all subscribe by paying the $17.76 annual subscription fee for the fax or e mail version, or use the Common Sense telephone long-distance service just to inform yourself, family, and friends, you will be helping a great deal. Common Sense news is a tool to wake up the American people to threats to the Republic. Strategic influence is what we are talking about. Put simply, networking with who you know, where you go, and what you do will establish Common Sense news among the people from the ground up. By quietly influencing people to read the news briefs, we will begin to have an effect. This is the same way that Thomas Payne effected the start of our nation in the first place, from the people up to the king, eventually. People read Common Sense, and passed it on. The ideas took a hold, and the Republic was the result.

If you want to talk about how you might help, give me a call at 813-528-2549. or Write to me at PO box 1776, St. Petersburg, FL 33731-1776. I need your thoughts, help, and prayers

Famine threatens, Common Sense offers assistance

The Common Sense national news room is constantly receiving up to the minute reports and interpretations of news events that are of critical interest to the security of the Republic. As the bits and pieces come in, pictures begin to form and situations become clear. There is a frightening picture forming and it is of famine. Crop reports, commodity prices, whether conditions and other factors clearly indicate that each person should make preparation to feed themselves for at least 4 years or as long as possible. Parents must see to the needs of their children and children must see to the welfare of the seniors in their families. We must all do what we can for those that cannot do for themselves.

To assist, Common Sense has formed a strategic relationship with Live Oak Farms. This relationship will provide some of the lowest prices on food and other products as shown in the Live Oak Farms catalog. Buying through Common Sense cost no more and gets you more value for your dollar.

For every year's worth of food you buy, you will receive a year's free subscription to Common Sense News for yourself or you can give it to someone like your local, state or federal elected representatives. Buying this way helps support Common Sense News and is doing your part to restore the Republic while you prepare yourself and your family for what is coming.

We all buy health, life and accident insurance. Shouldn't we buy food insurance, too? That's what this is. Live Oak Farms provides the highest quality, long-term food stores. These are not surplus military rations. They are fresh and will keep until you need them.

For more information or a catalog call 800-482-5560.
